

Title

Deterministic classification of Swedish parliamentary motions and party policy profiles # Question

What patterns of policy emphasis (left-right categories) emerge from Swedish parliamentary motions, and how do party-level praxis profiles compare when motions are classified deterministically by a transparent ruleset? # Results

Summary of main findings goes here. Include sample sizes, proportions, and references to figures generated by `scripts/visualize_advanced.py` and `scripts/visualize.py`.

Example: Party X shows a 0.60 weight on economic-market categories (Figure 1 — generated by `scripts/visualize_advanced.py`). # Significance

Interpretation and limitations. State what the deterministic classifications imply for comparative analysis and what follow-up checks are needed.